Terrapin Roadshow in GP next week

Daily Courier

Deadheads will have a chance to experience the sound and spirit of the music they love when the Terrapin Roadshow makes a stop in Grants Pass next week.

The traveling concert series, which launched in 2024 to celebrate the music and community of the Grateful Dead, is bringing a handful of musicians to town for two outdoor concerts.

The concert series is produced by Grahame Lesh, the son of the late Grateful Dead bassist Phil Lesh, who died in 2024. It takes its name from Terrapin Crossroads, the San Rafael, California nightclub opened in 2011 by Phil Lesh and his wife, Jill, and named for the band's 1977 album, "Terrapin Station." The venue closed in 2021.
